

When I was young, my father liked to eat hot sauce with EVERYTHING. He even ate it with grapefruit. I would make a face because it seemed gross to me! When my mom saw me make a yucky face, she would say "Different people have different taste buds." What do you think that means? This cartoon might help you understand!

EMILY LAITIN AGE 9
PHOENIX, ARIZONA

The bird learned to like bananas and the monkey learned to like worms because they shared with each other. That's great! I still don't like hot sauce on my grapefruit, and that's okay, too. Remember that you can try new things and always be true to how YOU feel!

- Lily Gallo